The Press on the Boom.

The Baltimore Sun, which was represented here Wednesday by Mr. Maxwell, of its home staff, prints a two column account of the Immigration Convention, with liberal extracts from the speeches made. The Philadelphia Press gave a column and a half to it, including Hon. S. B. Elkins' fine speech. The Pittsburg papers had a half column each, though the Commercial Gazetie in its headlines did what it could to belittle the boom. The Baltimore American also had a half column account. Mesrre, C. Kraus & Brother, the whole sale liquor dealers of this city, were sum-moned to appear before United States Commissioner Forbes yesterday, which they did, but their hearing was postponed to swait the decison of Judge Jackson in case now pending in the United States Court for this District against a Pittaburgh wholesale dealer. The Messrs. Kraus have an ordinary wholesale dealer's li-cense, as all other wholesalers have. They cense, as all other wholesalers have. They employ traveling salesmen to sell fluor, just as all live wholesalers in this and other lines do. The present charge against them is that, whereas their license is to sell liquor at wholesale in Wheeling at a certain number specified in the license, they sold liquor at Clarksburg. A drummer for their house took an order from a Clarksburg man. The goods were shipped from the house here, and subsequently a collector called for the money when it fell due. Of course all wholesale liquor dealers do business the same way, here and elsewhere. It is an accommodation to the local retailer and a necessity in this age of sharp competition. age of sharp competition.

Lately the department at Washington reached the conclusion that this meth of doing business was a technical viola-tion of the law. One of the earliest procecutions under this ruling was brought in the United States Court in this district the United States Court in this district, against a Pittaburgh house. The case was argued at the last term of the court at Clarksburg, by J. P. Clifford and D. H. Leonard, and taken under advisement. The case of Kraus Brothers will be held in abeyance until that decision is arrived at.
